

A selection of quotes by a number of company and community members.

These are not public otherwise and can be used in any way you see fit.

"We have significantly increased the overall QA/testing effort, reinforcing the stability of openSUSE 13.1, that has been declared by our community a long maintenance term version. Both elements together makes openSUSE a solid choice for those who use Linux based distributions to work everyday."

-- Agustin Benito Bethencourt. openSUSE Team Lead at SUSE

"openSUSE 13.1 with its dark/green graphical elegance reminds me of the days when all we had was the command line. A true Linux memento."

-- Andy (anditosan) Silva, openSUSE Artwork team

"openSUSE 13.1 is rock solid. Upgraded my primary workstation when RC2 was released and have had no issues. Everyone put in a tremendous amount of effort and the community pulled together to knock it out of the park. I don't think there is any distribution that can compete on all fronts with openSUSE, performance, stability features, you name it, the release just rocks."

-- Robert Schweikert, SUSE engineer, openSUSE Board member and openSUSE Packager

"With 13.1, you can finally hack YaST without the need to learn Yet another Programming Language."

-- Josef Reidinger, SUSE YaST hacker

"The GNOME Team pushed boundaries and resources to provide you the greatest GNOME 3.10.1 in time for the 13.1 release. We are very happy to have seen an increase in the number of volunteers reporting bugs and test fixes during the beta/rc phase"

-- Dominique 'Dimstar' Leuenberger, GNOME team lead

"This release is more than the sum of its parts. We made big changes to our testing processes and tools and with the Evergreen commitment and KDE's commitment to supporting Plasma Desktop 4.11 for a long time, this should allow users to rely on this release for a long time."

-- Jos Poortvliet, openSUSE Community manager